LARGE OR SMALL

MASS EDUCATION has developed into a factorylike scheme, where a student entering in at one end attends certain lectures, gets credit for such hours of attending and writes exams every year, and at the end of four years or so emerges with the honor to place certain initials after his name if he chooses.

When the registration assumes the role of thousands, and when those attending one particular lecture number hundreds, there can be no human contact between professor and student. The large university takes away all the humanity in study, while in the small college there is a closer touch and a mutual understanding between the one who desires knowledge and the one who directs his activity in that direction.

But on the other hand the large university has created an atmosphere which would be unattainable in the small college. It brings together on an unlimited scale breadth of training and experience. The fellowship amongst the students may not be so intimate as in smaller institutions but there is a greater variety of types, and the true education comes in learning how to accommodate ones-self and adjust ones outlook on the many shades of opinion.

In choosing ones university there is a quandary. To select one would mean to forgo the other. Intelligent educators have seen this matter and have within the last decade tried to compromise, chiefly by having a number of colleges, all subdivisions of the larger university. The system at Toronto, whether planned or not, seems to be in this direction. There is a beginning of it at McGill.

In Claremont, California, a system of colleges is being established under a plan that keeps each within a reasonably small enrollment, so that both the institution and student may develop their respective individualities, and so that students and professors may have the close contacts which they so much value, and at the same time enjoy the total facilities of all the colleges.

Of a somewhat different form, yet accomplishing much the same results, are opportunities offered by certain colleges which have affiliated with Columbia and by those which have federated into what is known as Western Reserve University. Working from the other direction—that is, dividing instead of combining—splitting the overgrown college or university into small units, so that contacts between students and teachers may be richer and more frequent, is the House Plan at Harvard.

Thus it may be said that mass education and the education of the isolated small college have left their pedestals and, each recognising the values of the other, are approaching each other on a common mission, that of combining and adjusting their hitherto separated advantages.

If a student can have an occasional stroll across the campus with his professor, or chat as friend to friend over a simple informal lunch, education will have much more nearly fulfilled its definition.

EMANCIPATION

THE EMANCIPATION of women is going further and further every day. No longer do women insist on some specific right but they demand absolute equality with man. They are willing to share his responsibilities, his work, his amusements and what is more they are prepared to pay their way. This latest development has taken place in Germany where it has become the recognized thing for a woman to pay for her share of the amusement when accompanied by a man.

The results of this should be more important than would, at first sight seem the case. Apart from the fact that men will save a few odd dollars and cents there will be the effect between the relations between the two sexes. When woman pays her own way the day of the so-called dog-digger will be over. No more will man sit down in a restaurant and order a glass of water while his female companion regales herself on chicken à la king. No longer will the mere male go without lunch for a week to provide an evening's entertainment for some fair casual acquaintance. No more will these things be, for every fair partner will have to prove herself financially stable before she can get a young man to accompany her.

Some critics of the younger generation say that men and women these days are too frank with each other. When women pay their way this will be even truer than it is today. Honestly will be the rule.

We can imagine the college student of the future dating up a co-ed without previous investigation as to her gastronomic abilities. We can foresee the time when freshettes will speak sweetly to their escorts after a dance without even hinting that they are accustomed to being driven home in taxis. We may even state, with some degree of confidence, that the time will come when a man will be able to approach three women waiting for the street-car even if he has only one car-ticket and no money in his pocket.

These things will probably come in time. Meanwhile they are confined to Germany and we can only express the wish that we also were confined there—until we get our next letter from home at any rate.

In Other Days

From the University Gazette, Vol. 1, No. 2, 1873.

McGill Registration

The following, collected from the University Calendar for 1873, is the number of undergraduates for the year from each of the provinces or countries mentioned—Quebec, 141; Ontario, 22; Nova Scotia, 8; Cape Breton, 1; Prince Edward Island, 3; Newfoundland, 3; United States, 11; Barbadoes, W.I., 1; England, 2; Ireland, 1.

The College Grounds

It has been the custom of the College for some years past to allow the public, or that part of it who cared to pay, free access to the grounds. It only needs a walk through them on a bright afternoon to discover the results of this policy. On the football grounds will be discovered some fifty or sixty school-boys playing a game of their own, invariably interrupting the students. If the day is hot, the observer, by shutting his eyes, and slightly exerting his imagination, could readily fancy himself in Pandemonium, on account of the fearful yells and screams with which the youngsters accompany their exertions. Let us suppose the observer is a modest freshman of somewhat extensive reading. He has read of the classic walks of Oxford and Cambridge, paced by grave dons and hard-working students. He thinks he will find the same conditions to some extent at McGill, and looks forward to peeping her walks with the poets and philosophers of the past, or its picturing to his mind the academic distinctions the future will bring within his grasp. He hurries away from the play-ground, and crossing the drive, he sees—what? Not that scene of quiet seclusion he fancied would exist, but all over the grounds some fifty nurses with their infantile charges instead of the shouts of virile fourteen, the quavering treble of four and under thrills through his ears; a gust of wind brings the yells of the boys to him; the nurses, in all dialects from patois to Erse, comment on his appearance as if he were an intruder, and their infantile charges redouble their efforts, in which they succeed perfectly "to make the day hideous with their shouting."

Correspondence

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Sir—
In common with many of my fellow-students, I have been disappointed that it has been found necessary to use so much external or foreign "fill-up" material, in our own college paper.

There are many students who feel themselves capable of producing articles but are deterred by the fear of being ridiculed by their more literary but lazier confreres. If some encouragement were given these, I venture to predict that the editors would have no need to draw upon the literary outpourings of other colleges. It was suggested to me by one of these baselike ones that boxes should be placed in the common-rooms, in which they could deposit their efforts, which would be published at the discretion of the editors. In this way nervous persons could convey their work to the "Daily" unobserved, Yours Etc.

"Conquistador"
(Ed. note: The introduction of filler from other papers is a definite policy. Contributions, as mentioned, will be gladly received, if handed in at the Union Tuck Shop.)

To the Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,
In a recent issue of the Daily, I have noticed with a great deal of pleasure the attempt of several students to form a McGill Badminton Club for men.

At present, there are a great number of students who desire to participate in this sport at McGill, but have been denied this form of exercise due to the lack of a club here. There is no doubt that the Badminton Club will not lack support once it is formed.

As one who is interested in this form of activity, I wish the sponsors the heartiest success in their welcomed project.

Yours truly,
G. Zimmerman.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir—
We echo the statement in yesterday's "Daily" that your editorials, so far, have been a sheer delight. But we refer particularly to that of "Being Ourselves". What fun it was on Monday to laugh at our fellow-students who so joyously forgot their somber dignity and went scampering across the campus.

It was a treat to hear Max Ford utter his historic statement "But don't gum up the works!" The impromptu and spontaneous spirit!

But please, Mr. Editor, relieve our minds by telling us that the co-ed overheard so often by your reporter as he wrote his running comment of

To thee, fair freedom! I retire
From flattery, cards, and dice,
and din;
Nor art thou found in mansions
higher
Than the low cot or humble inn.

'Tis here with boundless power I reign;
And every healthy which I begin,
Converts dull port to bright champagne;
Such freedom crowns it, at an inn.

Here, waiter! take my sordid ore,
Which lackeys else might hope to win;
It buys, what courts have not in store,
It buys me freedom, at an inn.

Who'er has travell'd life's dull round,

May sigh to think he still has found

Thank you for your editorial,
Yours very truly
Bluestocking.

The Editor,
McGill Daily.

Dear Sir,
In Thursday's Daily, a news report discloses the fact that the Students' Council has been discussing the changes giving that dangerous organ the right of expressing its own profound thoughts.

It seems that the Councilors, in executive session assembled, have interpreted the Daily constitution to make it say that an editorial is only an editorial when it appears in the masthead column of page two. "Brass Tacks", then, is not editorial matter. The implication striven for is evidently that you, Mr. Editor, are free to state your editorial mind in one column, while the Vigilant Council can forbid you doing the same thing in another.

I wish to challenge most decidedly this interpretation. In its little excursion into newspaper affairs the Council appears to be riding roughshod over the proper and constitutional sense of words, and also, in my opinion at least, over the meaning of the action taken last year in making the gesture that it did. The question at the time, was not as to where the editors might be free to express themselves, but as to whether or not they should be free to do so.

I think that I would find full support from anyone conversant with such matters in saying that 'editorial column' means a column in which editorial opinion is expressed, regardless as to whether that column appears on the first, second, or third pages of the paper, providing it is in a column designate as editorial opinion or comment, it constitutes editorial matter, and is an 'editorial column'.

That Brass Tacks was regarded as editorial by last year's Council is evident from the agreement between the Council and the editor-in-chief then that it should be so regarded, and as such should be initiated by the editor-in-chief before being allowed to go to press.

The problem raised at the Council is, to say the least, an hypothetical one of little practical importance. Brass Tacks is primarily editorial comment on sport, and does not concern itself with controversial matter of an inflammatory nature. One can understand even less why the Council should appear to be so anxious to take away as much as possible with one hand what it has just given so generously with the other.

Incidentally, the Daily constitutional changes were made by the Students' Council last year, not at a general meeting of the Students Society as was stated.

Yours sincerely
J. B. Smit

Next Week At Local Theatres

"The Scarlet Woman"

By the Orpheum Players

A play of unusual interest and significance has been chosen as next week's medium for the Orpheum Players. It is entitled "The Scarlet Woman" and tells the story of the life of Sella Sears. The Dramatist discussing this drama the problem whether a woman who is about to marry should take her future husband into her complete confidence regarding her past life in all things.

The plot concerns a young woman, daughter of a famous father, who was her parent's shadow until his death, when she went to New York determined to enjoy the spotlight herself, while viewing a bit of life. However, the year Agatha spent in the metropolis happened to be one of the city's busy years and so New York paid little attention to the little New England girl. Finally, in desperate loneliness, Agatha determined to adopt a baby. When she returned to her home in the little village that nestles in the Berkshire Hills, she found herself more in the spotlight than she had ever dreamed, for none of the townsfolk believed the story she told about the baby.

Then the man who was fated to figure so importantly in the girl's future life comes along and his advent into the quiet and narrow New England village results in a series of almost startling situations before it finally ends in a manner pleasing to all.

"The Scarlet Woman" has been played from the Pacific Coast to the Atlantic by Pauline Frederick, the noted picture actress.

"The Careless Age"

Coming to Princess

Another all-talking and singing picture will be presented at the Princess theatre for one week, starting today, when "The Careless Age" is shown. The danger of an infatuation of a young man with an older and more sophisticated woman is the basis for the thrilling story "The Careless Age" tells. It is adapted from John Van Druten's well-known stage play "Diversion" and has its locale in London and at Lake Como. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. plays the boy; Carmel Myers portrays the sophisticated actress and Loretta Young is also featured.

Fairbanks, Jr. has his finest role in this film. He plays a young English medical student, son of a famous surgeon, who falls madly in love with an actress much older than he. It is a role calling for genuine artistry, a characterisation that must be carefully shaded in the different sequences, and one that must always retain its sincerity.

Carmel Myers plays the actress with much charm, and Loretta Young is the girl who finally wins the boy. Holmes Herbert, Kenneth Thomson, Doris Lloyd, Wilfred Noy and others are seen in the cast. Many of them have had extensive stage experience.

"Laffin' Through"

At the Gayety Theatre.

Lovers of burlesque are expected to find something very much to their taste at the Gayety next week, when "Laffin' Through" pays its annual visit to Montreal.

Many of the songs are parodies on current topics, and the dancing is reported to be excellent. The scenic and costume appointments are said to be the very utmost in fantastic color schemes. The singing is refreshingly pleasing and there are several special farcical scenes that are hilariously funny.

"Laffin' Through" has received the same attention as was given its former productions under the same sponsorship. The newly organized company boasts such talent as "Peaches," the well-known dancing favorite, and Joe Van, popular comedian both of whom are featured.

At the opening of the meeting, those members who had attended the Student Volunteer Movement conference recently held at Kingston told of some of the ideas they had received as regards finance and publicity.

The object of the group. It was said in reply to a question of Mr. Brooks, is to awaken in the students an interest in missions and to inculcate in them an understanding of Christ. The question then arose how a Christian differed from any other upright man who did not profess that faith. It was suggested the difference lay in the dynamic force behind Christianity, a deeper motive for all one's actions.

Harriers Run Annual Race

Heavy Entry List in Try-Out for Team

FIVE MILES

Keen Competition Expected Among Veteran Distance Men

The McGill Harrier Club will hold its annual run over the mountain course this morning. The start is set for 10.30 and a large entry list assures a good turn-out for the event. The course is 5.6 miles in length and follows the old route up the serpentine road on the mountain. Leaving the Stadium by the Pine Avenue Entrance the pack will turn west on Pine Avenue to the mountain road. They will follow this for a mile and a half to the beldal path on top of Mount Royal. Another half mile will be run on the mud of this horse path before the field starts for home. The trip back is all downhill with the exception of the few hundred yards between Clark Avenue and the gates of the Stadium.

The race will serve as the official trials for the harrier team which will meet the Varsity and Queen's distance men here one week from today. Captain Bob Calhoun will lead the distance men into action, and if his fine effort in the Intermediate three mile event can be taken as a criterion of his performance as a harrier, he should find little difficulty in leading the field home this morning. Ian Bakmer, Intercollegiate three mile winner, will also be well up in the running as well as Ken Lochhead, who won the Interfaculty mile.

Several newcomers are entered and any of them may spring a surprise on the veterans. All considered, the McGill harrier team of 1929 should be a strong one.

Soccer Gossip

By Hat Trick

The Senior team complete their International matches with a game in Springfield this afternoon, against the Springfield Y.M.C.A., a former team of Van Wagner's. After their match with Army on Wednesday and Yale yesterday, the boys will have had a stiff program, and if they win today, it will be a great feat, as the Springfield Eleven are a very strong team.

The Reserves will play a return match with the Harlequins, a Sun Life team, on the Campus, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. In their last encounter, the Insurance men came out on top, but today the "Lily Whites" will encounter a great deal more opposition, as the Redmen are out to turn the tables. With Evelyn in goal, the Harlequins sharpshooters will have to go some to catch the big netminder napping.

Davies, the visitors' captain and inside left, will bear watching, as he is a tricky player and a neat dribbler, whose style is wont to turn his opponents' hair grey. The teams will line up as follows:

Seconds		Harlequins
Evelyn	Goal	Wilkins	Right Back
Henry	Right Back	MacDonald	Left Back
Gilard	Right Half	Morris	Right Half
Peters	Centre Half	Fairley	Centre Half

Onside Pass Rules

Compiled by A.A.B.

N.B.—Page 30, Rule VI, Sect. 8 omit the words "or by onside pass".
Page 43, Sect. 6, reference should read "see Rule X, Sect. 6, page 32."

RULE	PENALTY FOR INFRINGEMENT
1.—Must be thrown from 5 yards behind line of scrimmage.	Loss of one down and re-scrimmage.
2.—Pass must cross "the line of scrimmage":— (a) if it touches ground. (b) if it hits thrower's side (kick) (c) if blocked by opponent.	Loss of one down and re-scrimmage. Loss of one down and 10 yards. Side recovering the ball shall have 1st down at spot where ball was dead.
3.—Pass may not be thrown on 3rd down.	Loss of ball at point of scrimmage.
4.—(a) Pass must not go out of bounds without touching a player. (b) If it touches eligible man and goes into touch.	Loss of one down, brought back and re-scrimmage. Scrimmaged by defending team at point where it went into touch.
5.—If Pass crosses 25-yard line (a) caught by eligible man of thrower's side. (b) recovered by defending side.	Brought back, re-scrimmaged with loss of one down. Ball advanced as far as possible with option of scrimmage on 25-yard line.
6.—A cleanly caught ball is one that does not touch the ground or any other player. If the pass is incomplete, i.e. not cleanly caught by the receiver the ball becomes offside to everyone of the passer's side, who must all give yards as in the kick see Rule X Sect. 6.	The opposing side shall have a scrimmage 15 yards in advance of spot where offense occurred.
7.—If the pass touches, in succession, two eligible players of passer's side it is incomplete, as page 38 Rule XIII last para. has been violated. It makes no difference whether 2nd man was onside or not.	Same penalty as in No. 6.
8.—If the pass is cleanly caught by eligible man who then makes an offside pass, see Rule XIII Sect. 3 (a).	If yards have not been made the penalty shall be loss of one down and 10 yards from point of offside pass. If yards have been made the penalty shall be loss of 10 yards from where the offense occurred down shall be 2nd down and yard sticks shall be 10 yards in advance.
9.—Pass caught or touched by ineligible man i.e. line-man outside wings not on extremity of line or half-backs not one yard behind line or Quarter-back. The pass shall be incomplete—page 42, Sect. 3 has been violated.	Re-scrimmage, loss of one down and 10 yards from where pass was thrown.
10.—If eligible man and opponent both catch ball simultaneously, ball belongs to side putting ball into play.
11.—If pass hits receiver and caught by defense, defensive man may advance ball as far as possible.
12.—Pass touched by eligible man, then fumbled by defensive (a) forward—ball is free to passer's side and to defensive side who is onside, subject to Rule X governing offside. (b) backwards—it is free ball to both teams.	Loss of one down and 10 yards from spot where offense occurred.
13.—If pass is intercepted cleanly by opponent's side he may gain as much ground as he can.
14.—If pass is first touched by defensive man who fumbles (a) Forward-ball is free to passer's side and to player's defensive side who was onside. Subject to Rule X governing offside. (b) Backwards—it is a free ball to all players.	Loss of one down and 10 yards from spot where offense occurred.
15.—A defense man who bats the ball forward see page 21, Sect. 16.	Loss of ten yards and one down.
16.—Eligible receiver clipped on line: legal.
17.—Eligible receiver blocked elsewhere.	Ball given to non-offending team at point where foul occurred.
18.—Defense blocked or interfered with when not in interference zone.	Loss of one down and 10 yards.
19.—Eligible receiver of throwers side bats the ball, (a) forward. (b) backward, pass not completed and 3 yards required.	Loss of ball at point of foul. Loss of ball and 15 yards.
20.—If 2 eligible men of thrower's side simultaneously catch the ball the 2nd one is ineligible, see Sect. 7, above.	Loss of ball and 15 yards.

Recommended Rule:—If a player intentionally grounds the pass i.e. throws it with no intention of having it caught it shall be illegal.

Those persons interested in the various sports to gather together and meet one another. Invitations have been issued to the representatives of the various activities as well as to the class managers of "sports." The Committee hopes that managers and their assistants will also attend.

The Misses Dorothy Ward, Marjorie Hadwin, Mary Bub and Phyllis Lythe will give musical selections during the course of the tea.

Polo Team Has Last Work Out

Seniors May Meet C.P.R. on Monday Night

As a final practice for the game against C.P.R. which will probably be played Monday night, McGill's Senior Water Polo Team worked out against a team composed of four M.A.A.A. seniors and some McGill juniors in a practice game last night. The seniors looked very ragged, and lost to this scrub team by five goals to four.

The goaling of Cornforth for "The Rest" had a great deal to do with this result, but nevertheless the McGill forwards were not working well together. The wings were drifting back from the opposing goal continually, and left no men to receive long passes at the goal-mouth. Handling of the ball was poor also; Mersereau and Bourne were able to manoeuvre openings in the shallow end, but when the open goal was in front of them, they fumbled the ball.

Good form was shown in combination between half and centre. Phil Matthews in an old hand at this, and was handing wrinkles to Payton, Mersereau and Gilman. By means of breaking on the part of the half openings were made for Bourne in centre several times; and twice he was able to make passes which resulted in goals.

The schedule has the game with C.P.R. stated for Monday night, but an attempt is being made to postpone this game till the night following. Then a doubleheader could be arranged, as the juniors are playing Nationals that night.

The line-up in the practice game was as follows:—

Seniors	"The Rest"
Gardner	Goal
Mathams	Defence
Gilman	Price
Payton	Doig
Bourne	Half
Buckley	Light
Mersereau	Centre
Spencer	Thwaites
	Forward
	Alan
	Erabander
	Spare

Societe Francaise Meets On Friday

Entertainment Will Take Form of "Matinee Dramatique"

The first meeting of the Societe Francaise will take place on Thursday, October 31, at 4 o'clock, in the Common Room of the R.V.C. The entertainment will be in the nature of a "Matinee Dramatique", each year giving some dramatic presentation in French. Prizes will be given for the best skills of the afternoon. As many of the R.V.C.'s best actresses are participating, the entertainment should be excellent.

The Executive urges that all students interested in French be present, as they will find that the programs of the Societe are very beneficial and interesting, especially since it is the policy of the Club to have as many students as possible take part, rather than resort to outside speakers. Freshettes and newcomers to the University are particularly invited to attend. Tea will be served at Thursday's meeting.

Old McGill To Be Dedicated To MacDonald

Faculty would prefer to appear together. Comment on this proposition by the seniors themselves would be welcomed by the board.

Last year, the "Campus Life" section was one which attracted wide attention. The criticism directed at this department was that it appeared all in one group. Volume 23 will include a page of "Campus Life" under each faculty. It is important that these pictures be contributed by the members of the various faculties at once. Any pictures dealing with the intimate life of students may be left with Mr. Yates at the Union or handed to any member of the annual board.

The title page of Volume 23 will be something of an improvement of that of its predecessors; while it is also felt that the Fraternity section could be made much more interesting.

During the course of the meeting Wilson Becker was appointed to look after the athletic section of the book, while J. A. Paton was named Photograph Editor.

The board will meet again on November 5th when it is hoped that all biographies will be in the hands of the faculty representatives.

JUPILE PRACTICE

The members will meet at 9 a.m. Sunday morning in Strathcona Hall to proceed to Point-aux-Trembles range. Heavy clothing and a lunch are essential. Everyone interested is welcome.

temperature and sound. The information disclosed in the former class is as follows: contrary to supposition the temperature charted on the microthermometer invariably fell when land was neared, due to the cold water being thrown to the surface by the shelving of the shore. With equal precision the water grew warmer in proximity to icebergs. He explained the latter fact thus, "Icebergs act as a force pump; ten per cent of a berg is air, compressed into it during its formation; this force is way out below the level of the sea, drawing in the warmer surface water. This soon becomes cold and falls to a considerable depth, so that warm water is drawn to the berg from a considerable distance."

The fact that bubbles are continually coming from the berg lead Dr. Barnes to make another valuable discovery. Before the expedition commenced Dr. King had lent him a micrometer, asking him to place a rubber tube underneath the surface with a wide spout on the end, to see if icebergs could be heard. The results were remarkable, for at five miles the distinctive, low-pitched, resounding, almost hammer-like notes of air bubbling from the berg could be detected. "The clear notes," says Dr. Barnes "could almost have been broadcasted at three miles; they were so loud."

McGill Juniors Tackle Bishops.

Sudden Death Game Takes Place on Campus at 10.30

The McGill junior football squad completed training last night with an intensive signal practice in preparation for their sudden death game against Bishops this morning at 10.30 on the campus. While the seniors are at Queens and the Intermediates are in Quebec facing the Quebec Swimming and Football Club, the Juniors will be at home to Bishops in a game that will decide the provincial junior intercollegiate championship. The winner earns the right to meet Queens Juniors, Ontario titleholders, for the Junior Intercollegiate crown.

The red juniors in their workout against the seniors on Thursday showed what they could do, and they just added the finishing touches with their signal practice last night. The plays are executed, while the line is one of the most formidable lines a McGill junior squad has had during the past eight years.

Under the able direction of Coach "Rube" Stewart, the team is practically at its best and should prove a difficult problem for Bishops to cope with. The half-line, composed of Johnson, Bell and Dunbar, has been some great guns lately, and their execution of end-runs and forward passes is something worth while seeing.

The game will get underway at 10.30 on the Campus, and McGill will be represented by Bell, Dunbar, Johnson, Newton, Noelard, Christmas, Howard, Kaufman, Mullaly, Hilliard, Henderson, Fysha, Schacter, Veitch and Levine.

Availability of flares and the variation of the temperature at sea, concluded the lecture. A discussion followed. Dr. Barnes expressed the hope that in the near future a device could be arranged by which a neon light flashed on the bridge of a ship to warn the captain of icebergs at hand.

Charities Drive Starts Monday

Set Students' Objective at $1500—L. Hart, Chairman

Next week McGill students will be canvassed for subscriptions for the Federated Charities. According to Lawrence Hart, chairman of the students' campaign, an effort will be made to approach each student separately. "The campus will not be plastered with posters. The students' objective is set at $1500, an increase of $200 over last year. The committee are confident that this sum will be realized.

Vancover Men Beat Arts In Pennant Fight

(Continued from page one) turned when the shoe lace broke and down came both boot and pennant. In the midst of a group of Arts men who had accepted their defeat and were ready to make peace. Their hopes were renewed when they saw the standard lying at their feet. One of them snatched it up and turned to go, but before he could escape from the crowd he was overwhelmed by a dozen lusty engineers, who soon retrieved the prize or at least the major portion thereof.

True was declared in a couple of rousing Arts and Science yells mingled with good humored cheers from the opposing camps.

Victory for Science was attributed to the fact that all their members are men and they are well organized.

The more proper and intellectual aspect of University life was exhibited tonight in a debate between the U.B.C. and a team of New Zealand debaters. The visitors successfully upheld the negative of "Resolved that the British Empire is in grave danger of disintegration."

The three New Zealand speakers are making a debating tour of Western Canada and the United States. They will take part in 27 debates speaking on 6 different topics. They are particularly able speakers and it is to be regretted that they are unable to visit McGill. After having spent a week in Vancouver they expressed themselves as being favorably impressed with Canada.

New Zealand and Australia, they claim, are still firmly attached to the British Empire. "The newspapers in New Zealand give more world news than the Canadian papers," declared one of the New Zealanders. Judging from their knowledge of world affairs one is inclined to believe them. They displayed keen interest in the activities of the Canadian Wheat Pool, and wished to gain first hand information about it.

Intermediate Track Squad Defeat R.M.C.

Losses Shoe In the mile run Macdonnell was the victim of a curious accident. Early in the second lap one of his shoes came off. He continued gamely to the finish annexing third place. Clinders are not the softest footing for bare skin. Incidentally, Greenwood ran a good race to cross the line twenty yards ahead of Ball of McGill. In this event the time was also exceptionally good.

Young of McGill accounted for the high jump clearing the bar at 5' 7". Lusher took the second position after contesting every height with Young. The broad jump was won by McAvity with McGill men second and third.

The javelin throw brought to light a future intercollegiate field man in the person of Ward who won the event with a throw of 145' feet. This is only nine feet behind the Senior Intercollegiate record. Longley of MacDonald college, representing McGill won the shot put with a heave of 34 feet 2 inches.

Coach Van Wagner expresses great satisfaction in the meet. The performances were exceptional for the time of the year and several newcomers were uncovered who should win places on the next Senior Track Team.

McAvity was the high scorer of the meet, winning three events outright, and making a mark in the pole vault which should stand for several years.

TO-MORROW AT St. James United Church

REV. LLOYD C. DOUGLAS, M.A., D.D. REV. T. ANSON HALPENNY, B.A. (McGILL) D.D. 11.00—"The Responsibilities of the United Church." Rev. G. A. Little, D.D., Toronto 7.30—"What Would be Heaven for You?" (A Symposium). Rev. Lloyd C. Douglas, D.D. Music Prelude at 7.15. Stanley Oliver, Organist and Musical Director.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO?

MR. MCGILL STUDENT:—

If a starving child asked you for food, if an aged man with bent back and weary limping walk asked you for shelter, if a woman lay dying for want of doctor and nurse — If you saw or heard them — and were faced with the alternative of seeing them suffer or of sacrificing some pleasure — a theatre or two, by giving a few dollars to help them. You would not hesitate for an instant, you would help them.

You do not see all the children who would starve, the aged men and women and the sick, but they are there within a stone's throw of old McGill and when you give to the Federated Charities Campaign, you are helping some 5,000 children, hundreds and hundreds of sick people and many an aged couple.
